II. (points) Computer simulations display astronomical or microscopic motion by scaling geometrical dimensions. For the displayed motion to be physically possible in the scaled system, time must also be scaled.

. A Newtonian particle orbits in a force field satisfying is constant; is the position vector. For dimension scale , find the time scale

. Hence show that a planet's orbital period squared scales as its orbit's size cubed.